History of European Morals,

FROM AUGUSTUS TO CHARLEMAGNE.

By WILLIAM E. H. LECKY, M.A.

THIRD EDITION, REVISED.

Two Volumes, 12mo, . . . Cloth, Three Dollars.

"It has been subjected to such critical attack, and sustained by such able defence, that its worth is universally known. It is a mine of information in a restricted but important province, and will long be quoted for its thoroughness in opening a study which, though touched by other writers, never before had such exhaustive consideration. Those who have not read it will find their study richly rewarded."—Albany Evening Times.

"In his methods, Mr. Lecky is a model of clearness and force. Holding firmly the doctrine of evolution in morals, he finds the origin of typical vices and virtues in the ideal standards of the people, tracing the specific virtues and vices of each epoch considered to the special characteristics of a preceding epoch, which have been handed down as ideals. That his conclusions do not command universal acceptance is undoubtedly true, but they do command respect wherever honest thought and faithful labor, in search after truth, are appreciated."—Detroit Free Press.

"There is a vast fund of information in the work, which the student of the broad theme that it treats will find of great interest, and one to which he may refer, as occasion requires, with a certainty of finding something to the point. The volumes are arranged with foot-notes, giving authorities, references, and quotations."—Evening Wisconsin.

"The controversial part of the first chapter having given rise to a good deal of discussion, and to some little acrimony of feeling, perhaps, the author has softened it by the omission of a few lines, and strengthened his position by the insertion of some brief passages, explaining the meaning, or enforcing it."—New York Evening Post.

"The excellence of this work is already attested, and it has long ago been considered a standard. The controversial portion of the work is clear in its statements, and so masterly in its handling of the salient points that none but an exceedingly obtuse person could fail to catch the full force of the argument presented. The author's object is to trace the changes that have taken place in the moral standard and moral type through the different ages, and he concerns himself mostly with the period between Augustus and Charlemagne."—Indianapolis Journal.

NOTES IN SEASON.

"DR. TOM" is the taking title of a physician who prescribes himself as the best cure for the effects of "bad literature published during the summer season"—which is no reflection, we hope, on the family. Edward Payson is the author, and Dresser, McLellan & Co., Portland, will publish it immediately. An addition to "The Forest City Series" is promised by them later.

LEE & SHEPARD have in press "That Wife of Mine," and will issue it as soon as possible, early in October at the latest. The "Wife" must have a deal of "faculty" to be a suitable companion for the "Husband." "Adrift in the Ice-Fields," Capt. Charles W. Hall's exciting story of sporting adventure in the Arctic regions, is also nearly ready at Lee & Shepard's. The boys will be likely to devour this book at one sitting.

THIS week's books from J. R. Osgood & Co. are Starr King's royal sermons on "Christianity and Humanity," which the eminent essayist E. P. Whipple has selected and edited, and to which he prefixes a delightful memoir 80 pages long; "One Year Abroad," a volume of travel, sketches, and impressions, by the author of "One Summer," which everybody has read and enjoyed; and four additional "Vest-Pocket" books—"Favorite Poems," and "The Cathedral," by James Russell Lowell; and Fouqué's two charming stories, "Undine" and "Sinttram."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a number of bright juveniles which are pretty sure to take. The clever author of "The House with Spectacles" has a new book, "Patsy," which, with "Six Sinners" (who do not after all belong to the family), by Wheaton Campbell, makes up a "Spectacles Series." Mr. Cornelius Matthews' compilation of Indian Stories, "The Enchanted Moccasins," and a pleasant volume of stories from the French, "The Wings of Courage," with illustrations by Lucy G. Morse, are also on the September list.

SCRIBNER, WELFORD & ARMSTRONG are now placing before the trade the new edition of Jacquemart's "History of the Ceramic Art," the finest work of the kind in the market, offered at the reduced price of $10.50 retail (instead of $18.) Besides the 12 exquisite etchings by Jules Jacquemart, in clear, fine impressions, there are 200 fine wood-cuts of rare and characteristic examples which fully illustrate the text and exhibit the development and progress of ceramic art in its historical, philosophical, and industrial aspects, while a thousand marks and monograms offer valuable aid to the collector, and render the work one of standard reference.

SCRIBNER, ARMSTRONG & Co. are about to bring out, under the title of "Surly Tim, and Other Stories," an authorized volume of the recent stories by the author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." It will include seven or eight of Mrs. Burnett's shorter stories, which have appeared chiefly in Scribner's Monthly, and which have been among the most popular tales lately written. "Surly Tim" (told in Lancashire dialect) is perhaps better known than any short story yet published in Scribner's. The present collection will include also "Esmeralda," "Lodusky," "Le Monsieur de la Petite Dame," etc., and show a literary power as varied in scene as it is remarkable in quality.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. will soon have ready volume ten of the "Dollar Series," which will be Colly Cibber's "Life of Edwin Forrest." This will be especially timely, as the interest awakened concerning Forrest by Alger's Life has not yet died out. It is written in the form of personal recollections and reminiscences, and will contain also a steel-plate, life-like portrait, with his autograph. The "Mother-in-Law," by Mrs. Southworth, will soon be on hand, and as she brings with her some very good company, all will be glad to see her, which, we are sorry to say, is not always the case. Her company will comprise "That Lover of Mine," together with "That Girl of Mine" and, last but not least, "Bessie's Six Lovers." "Theo," by Mrs. Fanny Hodgson Burnett, the most popular of the new authors, is also just ready.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just ready the fifth and last volume of Landor's unequalled "Imaginary Conversations," with a very full index to the entire series. These five admirable volumes, which embrace so much good statesmanship, philosophy, criticism, history, and literary charm, will be put in fine binding, and the set will make a noble gift. A bijou volume of Selections from Epictetus is ready for the "Wisdom Series." P. Thorne's "Jolly Good Times," which is chock-full of entertainment for young and old, and of good sense too, has been put in paper covers for 50 cents. Whoever buys it, gets as good a 50 cents' worth as has been offered to the public for many a day. "The Lord's Supper, and its Observance," an excellent and helpful religious book, by Lucretia P. Hale, with a preface by her brother, Rev. E. E. Hale, will be issued in a new edition immediately by Roberts Brothers.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A WORD TO OUR PATRONS.

WE shall present, in our next issue, a new scale of advertising rates, reduced and equalized, to which we desire in advance to call the especial attention of the trade. The basis of these rates will be the reduced price of $18 per single page, and in place of discounts, which are apt to prove in practice so variable as to be just neither to one side nor to the other, we shall present a tabulated scheme for single pages, fractions, and lines, giving liberal reductions according to the actual number of insertions contracted for. On this scale we shall make single pages for 52 insertions, i.e., through the year, as low as $12 per insertion, with halves and quarters in proportion, and from this there will be a further reduction of $4 per page for standing matter each time any page is reinserted. In other words, we shall give to the contract advertiser the benefit of the saving in type-setting on re-insertions, as a further inducement for liberal patronage. These rates touch the bottom prices at which advertising can be afforded in a journal of the character and circulation of the WEEKLY, and, with the good grace of the trade, we propose to make no variations from them. The only exception, which may be frankly stated, is in the case of three houses who have never missed representation in the WEEKLY since its first number, and who retain the exceptionally advantageous terms offered generally as an inducement at the start.

This reduction and change of base is not made because the WEEKLY has paid such a profit that it is enabled to make a dividend, after this fashion, with its advertisers, for, as a matter of fact, we yet look to the future for the remuneration which shall fairly cover the necessary outlay on this journal. But the spirit of the times demands reduction, in prices as well as in wages, and we have the hope that, in making this change, our patrons will find it so to their advantage as to enable them to be more liberal of their favors. The discount business has fallen into such demoralization that advertisers, as well as other purchasers, are apt to judge of prices less by the actual value of what they receive than by the discount they get off what they suppose other people pay. The schedule system has already been put in practice by one prominent journal, and we believe with satisfaction to all sides. In this, as in all things, we are of course dependent entirely on the goodwill of the trade, as expressing their self-interest in supporting an independent trade journal, but we look to that good-will to support us in the present change, which we believe to be to the advantage of the trade.

In making this announcement, it is but fair to take this opportunity to say that the WEEKLY has never yet approached the ideal of what we desire to give to the trade. We have tried to do as well as we could with the resources put at our command by our patronage. The bibliographical department,—which is, after all, our chief work, the alphabet of the bookseller,—systematized as it is into the shape found most useful to the trade, in weekly, order, monthly, and annual lists, requires an outlay peculiar to this journal—the fair equivalent in fact of the full service of more than one experienced and capable person—and, imperfect as it so far is, this takes so much from the possibility of expenditure in space for reading matter. The WEEKLY, we confess, has not always been so readable as it might be, chiefly because we were obliged as a question of economy to omit all matter not important for practical trade purposes. As its patronage approaches that accorded to foreign book-trade journals, we promise that the trade shall have no reason to complain either of the fulness or readableness of our matter. And so we bespeak for the WEEKLY the continued favor of the American book trade, which it will endeavor more and more worthily to represent.

THE trade sale opened on Wednesday, with the best attendance of any sale for years, all the leading houses being represented. The bidding was good, though wary, and very fair trade-sale prices were obtained on the desirable books. We defer our report, although partly in hand, to our next issue, in order to give it compactly for reference. Of the preceding sale of plates and Catholic books, we give a full report in this number: at this the prices were very low.

AT the desire of the Putnam and Appleton houses, in which other houses were understood to coincide, Messrs. Leavitt requested the daily press not to report prices, a sensible action, as the sale is peculiarly a trade matter, and the public is apt to be practically misled by the prices reported. At the same time, it must be said that this will not cover the difficulty, because the purchasers themselves at once advertise "trade-sale slaughters," and you can't check a disease by repressing the symptoms. An interesting question came up in the course of the bidding, as to whether lots of a thousand Favorite Tennyson (a wonderfully cheap and beautiful book, by the way) might be offered at fresh bidding, after the disposal of the 5000 catalogued. It seems at first sight that Mr. Foster was right in the position he took from the floor, and that there was nothing legally in the way, the question being essentially the same as that of duplicating. On the other hand, such a practice would tend to demoralize bidding for big lots on the regular lines, and Mr. Ticknor showed tact and was practically wise in declining to offer extra lots so long as objection was made.

THE TRADE SALES: PRELIMINARY DAY.

ON Tuesday, Sept. 18th, the Fall trade sales were opened by Geo. A. Leavitt & Co. with a preliminary catalogue of stereotype and electrotype plates, with copyrights and remainders, and several invoices of Catholic publications. The book-plates offered, comprising over a hundred sets, were of works many of which rank higher than the usual run of plates thus transferred, but the prices ran lower than usual, many bringing but metal prices; some works of note of a few years back were, in fact, bought by stereotypers for the material. The morning's sale embraced the plates of a large portion of the publications of J. B. Ford & Co., including most of the works of H. W. Beecher, those of the publications of the late W. B. Evans, of Philadelphia, and the late William J. Hammersley, of Hartford, sold in liquidation of their estates, and those of about forty Catholic works published by M. A. Walsh, of Cincinnati. The Beecher books were all taken on account of the author by a Mr. Sykes. The plates belonging to the Evans estate were all knocked down to Mr. Howard Challen, of Philadelphia. Messrs. Lippincott and the Central Book Concern, of Oskaloosa, Ia., were the largest buyers in the morning's sale, besides R. W. Shoppell, of New York, a jobber in electrotype plates and cuts, and "Lovejoy," "Reynolds," "J," and "M," all which are understood to represent the melting-pot. Mr. Raymond's novel of "Brave Hearts" was bought in by the author, and Mr. Eggleston's "Circuit Rider" was also purchased in his interest. The following is the list of the plates and prices:

Booth's History of New York received no offer, and was passed. The late G. W. Matsell's "Vocabulary, or Rogue's Lexicon," was knocked down at $5 to Shoppell. A long list of steel plates for engravings, 593 in number, sent by L. A. Godey, drew no bid, and their sale was postponed till Thursday.

The afternoon's sale commenced with about forty sets of book-plates, sent by M. A. Walsh, of Cincinnati, for a few of which there was lively competition, but the greater number seemed from the offers scarce worth reissuing. The largest buyers were Kehoe and Benziger Brothers, of New York, and Murphy & Co., of Baltimore. The list of books and prices was as follows:

- Rosary and Scapular Book. Illus. 32°, pp. 64. $3. Kehoe.

Path to Paradise. 64°, pp. 384.
Jesus Meine Liebe. 18°, pp. 608. The above seven prayer-books were sold together, for $500 the lot, to the buyer of the "Little Manual."

The large invoices of Kelly, Piet & Co., of Baltimore, Eugene Cumiskey, of Philadelphia, and J. A. Magee and P. O'Shea, of New York, ran very low. The bidding was so feeble on devotional books, especially on handsomely-made prayer-books and the like, that very many lots were not forced to a sale, one whole invoice indeed being withdrawn. The Catholic novels and Irish books made the fairest average, selling usually at 20 to 30 per cent of list prices.

STATIONERY NOTES.

We shall be glad to receive, for gratuitous notice, samples or brief descriptions of all novelties of general trade interest, of which small cuts will be inserted if furnished. Buyers ordering or making inquiry as to goods from the notices in our columns will confer a favor by mentioning the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY as the source of their information.

R. S. MERRILL, Boston, Mass., has patented a picture-book composed of sheet metal, made in the form of a double book, from a single sheet of metal, broad at the moulding, or rail-hook end, and narrow at the opposite end.

JOSEPH SALTER, Brooklyn, N. Y., has patented an envelope-opener made of soft metal. It is of round shape, with a combination movable hinged blade at the top, the largest part of the circle forming the handle.

E. CASPER, London, Eng., assignor to F. C. De Lousada, also of London, and W. D. S. Moncrieff, Glasgow, Scotland, has patented in the United States a temporary binder for filing letters. It is a combination of right-angled parts, with adjustable clip fixed with a clamping screw, on which are attached boards or flaps.

MR. CHARLES BAINBRIDGE, of Porter & Bainbridge, of New York, has a new card-writer's pencil for writing on enamelled cards. It is nicely finished, and equal to anything put on the market of its kind. They also have a fine line of enamelled card-board in white and two delicate tints.

GEO. W. MABIE, Brooklyn, N. Y., has patented as a new article of manufacture a pen-holder. The stock is fitted in one end of the outer barrel, and an inner barrel fitted in the other, which is so shaped as yield to and accommodate pens having different sized and shaped shanks.

G. A. McLANE, Chicago, Ill., has patented a pencil sharpener consisting of two spring depressed converging cutters, whose edges are directed toward the pencil point, and a tubular guide for the pencil, of sufficient length to cause the pencil to move in parallel longitudinal lines, and so placed relative to the cutters as to direct the pencil centrally between the latter.

C. C. SHEPHERD has in course of manufacture a combined writing and slate desk, which promises to be quite a novelty, and a useful article for school-children as well as an instructive toy. The success his desk slate has met with in the trade and among the little ones is an assurance that this last article will eclipse all other articles of similar construction. Samples will be sent to all responsible houses by J. G. Kent, 145 Nassau street, New York.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A NEW and thoroughly revised edition of Bryan's "Dictionary of Painters and Engravers" is in course of preparation in England.

JOHN MURPHY & Co. have just published the third edition of Dr. Samuel Tyler's "Discourse of the Baconian Philosophy."

HENRY A. YOUNG & Co., Boston, will publish, about the middle of October, "The Wooden Spoon," by Park Ludlow, an illustrated story, forming the third volume of the "Red Shanty Series."

"OUT of Doors at Long Look," the second volume in the "Long Look Series," by Rev. Edward Abbott,—an excellent series of stories by an excellent writer,—will be published soon by Noyes, Snow & Co., of Boston.

THE fourth volume from "Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag," by Miss Alcott, is coming in October or November. It will be about "My Girls," as a complement to the previous book on "My Boys," and hosts of girls and boys will wait for it with eager impatience.

MOSES H. SARGENT & SONS, Boston, have now ready a pamphlet by Rev. Dorus Clarke, D.D., answering the question "What is the True Idea of the Tri-Unity of God?" It was originally read before the Congregational Ministers' Meeting, and was liked so well that a formal request was made for its publication.

THE next number of the "No Name Series" is "Will Denbigh, Nobleman," and will be published on or before the middle of October. The title recalls Miss Mulock's most famous story, and its English name suggests the query whether this may not be the "No Name" story which it was said Mr. Hamerton was to furnish. Will Denbigh is understood to be one of Nature's noblemen.

J. H. BUTLER & Co. have just published a key to their new series of arithmetics. Thus far they have taken exceedingly well, having sold fifteen thousand since last June, and that, too, in the dulllest months of the year. The handy little volume of the "Ten Times Ten Series" known as "Butler's Selections," volume second, has made its appearance. J. P.

McCaskey is the editor. They are bound both in paper and cloth.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD, have now ready the work of the Rev. Thomas Murphy, D.D., "Pastoral Theology." This work is based on the lectures delivered by Dr. Archibald Alexander, who was one of the leading professors at Princeton in his day, and one of the greatest lights of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Murphy attended his lectures when a young man, and took notes which he has now elaborated, and to which he has added the result of his own experience of many years.

HERETOFORE A. & B. Conybeare and Howson's "Life of St. Paul" has been too expensive for general use. But the new edition just published by William Sychlemore, of Philadelphia, is so extremely cheap that every one can possess a copy. Of course, it has not all the advantages of the finer edition. There are but few notes and no maps, but the latter deficiency can readily be made up. It is a 12mo of some seven hundred pages, and is nicely printed and bound, for $1.50.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. have just issued in their "Household Edition" the "Poetical Works" of Oliver Wendell Holmes, and in the "Vest-Pocket Series" "The Farmer's Boy," by Robert Bloomfield; "Favorite Poems," by George Herbert; "A Midnight Fantasy," by T. B. Aldrich; and "A True Story," by Mark Twain; "Horatius and Virginia," by Lord Macaulay; "Lake Regillus, Ivry, and other Lays," by Lord Macaulay; "Favorite Poems," by Schiller, translated by Bulwer; and "Favorite Poems," by Sir Walter Scott.

DR. SCHLIEMANN's long-looked-for work on "Discoveries at Ancient Mycenæ" will be published late in the fall in an American copyright edition (Dr. Schliemann being an American citizen), by Messrs. Scribner, Armstrong & Co., in one large handsome volume, with many hundred illustrations. It will appear simultaneously with the English edition from the press of the London publishing house of John Murray. The work is being translated into both French and German, and will be published at the same time in Paris by MM. Hachette et Cie., and in Leipzig by Messrs. Brockhaus.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE BODLEYS TELLING STORIES. (Hurd & H.) "Doings of the Bodley Family in Town and Country," by the same author, will be remembered as one of the most charming juveniles, both in reading matter and in illustrations, of a past season. The above volume, in which the same little characters appear again, the wise Nathan, the saucy Phippy, Lucy, with Martin the coachman, cousin Ned, and Mr. and Mrs. Bodley, is made up in almost a similar style, the contents, however, being fresh and new, and exceedingly interesting and entertaining. There is a succession of stories told by the different characters both in prose and verse, and both of a serious and instructive nature, as well as merely humorous and amusing. The illustrations are scattered all through the text, in the form of most exquisite little vignettes and full and half-page pictures. The illustrations are among the very finest of the kind we have seen in any similar juvenile work. The greatest novelty is the binding, which is a new departure altogether, nothing like it having hitherto been attempted. It is fancy boards, Japanese in character, but so eccentric in design that it is almost impossible to describe it. On the outside of the two covers the design extends diagonally across the back from the upper right-hand corner to the lower left, one half being a pale gray ground with light blue figures upon it, with the firm's monogram in gold, red, black, and blue on the front cover; the other half, a dead black, bears the title in front, in odd-looking red lettering, while the back cover is adorned with gold stars, a young moon, and some striking red lines which might be forked lightning. The linings are even more elaborate than the exterior. Light blue is the dominant color here, the illuminations being in scarlet, gold, and black, the design extending across the lining of the cover and its accompanying leaf. Nothing so novel, pretty, and attractive, and so elaborate and artistic, has been shown before in the binding line. All the mechanical parts of the book are of the finest workmanship. The book is nevertheless issued at the very low price of $1.50. Sq. 8vo.

THE POETIC INTERPRETATION OF NATURE, by J. C. Shairp. (Hurd & H.) Some general views as to the sources of poetry, the poetic feeling awakened by the world of nature, the mystical side of nature, are given in the opening chapters, followed by special illustrations pointing to the several methods which the poets have actually followed in delineating nature and her numerous aspects. The book is the result of some lectures given by the author to a large popular audience about a year ago. The object of the lectures was to add a kind of literary supplement to a course of lectures on physical subjects delivered by Prof. Shairp's colleagues at about the same time, the author believing that some good might be done if he could succeed in bringing before his hearers the truth that while the several physical sciences explain each some portion of nature's mysteries, yet, after all the physical sciences have had their say, there remains a further truth regarding nature with which, real and interesting though it is, science does not intermeddle. It is this relation which exists between nature and the imaginative soul of man which he would demonstrate, and which he uses poetry and the poets to interpret. The lectures were designed at first mainly for the young, but will please all cultivated readers. 12mo, $1.25.

BURGOYNE'S CAMPAIGN AND ST. LEGER'S EXPEDITION, by William L. Stone. (Munsell.) The story of the Battle of Saratoga or Bemis Heights has only within a recent period been written with clearness and accuracy. The historian depended hitherto upon loose and hurried reports of prisoners taken at the time, and the biased testimony of interested parties, for a narration of the strategic movements of the English and German troops. The story was naturally one-sided, and covered up deficiencies and errors in our own generals which only the plain truth on both sides could dissipate. This the reader will find here, the contents of the volume being largely based upon two important works lately published in Germany, consisting of some sixty manuscript journals and orderly books written during the Revolution by Brunswick and Hessian officers who served here during that time. Mr. Stone is the author of "Life and Times of Sir William Johnson" and other works. With engravings. 12mo, cloth, $2.25.

AHN'S SECOND GERMAN READER, with Footnotes and Vocabulary by Dr. P. Henn. and AHN'S SECOND GERMAN READER, with Notes and Vocabulary by Dr. P. Henn. (Steiger.) As may be seen from the above titles, this work is issued in two editions: the first has the notes on each page under the text; the second, the notes will be found immediately at the end of the text. The matter in both editions is exactly similar, the different arrangements being made to meet the different views of teachers. Care should be taken in ordering to give the title in full, to avoid mistakes. The Reader is for advanced classes, is carefully graded, the selections being chiefly stories, lively conversations, and bright descriptions. A novel feature is the introduction of newspaper paragraph and business forms, designed to show the best present usage in regard to these subjects. A separate Key to the Reader is published for the convenience of teachers and private learners. Readers, 12mo, bds., $1; half roan, $1.20. Key, 50 cents.

CÆSAR'S COMMENTARIES ON THE GALLIC WAR, with notes, vocabulary, and maps, by G. K. Bartholomew. (Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co.) The text of this edition is chiefly based on the readings of Dinter and Krauer. The notes on the first four commentaries have been prepared by a careful study of the text, word for word, the critical annotations of Herzog, Schneider, Freund, Krauer, Doberenz, Heller, Ritter, and Hinzpeter having been freely used. These notes are designed to serve both pupil and teacher in stimulating investigation; hence constant references are made to Bartholomew's Grammar and to other sources of help, while many suggestive questions are left unanswered. The text of the remaining three commentaries is presented without notes, as few students read more than four books of the Gallic War. Great care has been taken to make the vocabulary accurate and serviceable. The typographical excellence of the volume is noticeable. 12mo, cloth, 90 c.

HOUSEHOLD EDUCATION, by Harriet Martineau. (Osgood.) Harriet Martineau's statements in her autobiography about her own unhappy childhood, and the evident sympathy she betrays all through her work for the unconscious, cruel, and unwise treatment often extended by cultured people to their little ones, has awakened a new interest in her views on household education, fully expressed in this volume, originally issued as far back as 1848. It is probably one of the most helpful and useful books Miss Martineau ever wrote, and is full of the wisest suggestions to parents for the physical, intellectual, moral, and social training of their children, all of a practical character, and based on the soundest philosophical principles. Its reissue in a new and handsome dress will be cordially welcomed by Miss Martineau's numerous readers and admirers. "Little Classic" style, $1.25.

EPOCHS OF MODERN HISTORY: THE AGE OF ANNE, by Edward E. Morris. (Scribner, A. & Co.) These epochs of history have done such efficient aid in the school-room, and are so thoroughly appreciated by teachers as the best method of impressing all the various details of a certain period upon the mind of a pupil, with all their surrounding causes, that further notice is scarcely necessary in citing the fact of a new volume being out. Mr. Morris, a teacher himself, is specially happy in the manner in which he puts his facts before the student, and in his method of relating them. His pages are never dull, and though he disclaims any originality or new information—his work, he admits, being a clever compilation from the writings of both French and English historians—it needs a special gift to select the best and weave it into so perfect a whole as the little book before us. It contains maps and plans, and is issued uniform with the other volumes of the series. 16mo, cloth, $1.

THE NATURALISTS' GUIDE, by C. J. Maynard, with illustrations by E. L. Weeks. (Naturalists' Agency, Salem, Mass.) This is a new and revised edition of a work formerly on the Os-goods' list. It is intended to meet the wants of young naturalists in collecting and preserving objects of natural history. The late Prof. L. Agassiz says of it: "I have carefully examined Mr. Maynard's work on Taxidermy. It is a well-digested, thoroughly practical treatise of the subject. Nothing of the kind has yet been published in the United States, and, with the growing taste for natural history among our young people, I should expect an extensive demand for such a book. Moreover, the second part, in which the birds of Eastern Massachusetts are enumerated, contains many valuable notices upon the habits and distribution of our birds, interesting even to the advanced students of natural history." 12mo, cloth, $3.

BLACKBERRY JAM, by Joanna H. Mathews. (Carter.) This is another addition to the "Haps and Mishaps" series, which begins with the "Little Friends at Glenwood," recounting their adventures throughout. A poor Irishman, with a big family of children, is the real hero of this story. Master Gerald Prime plays a trick upon him which prevents him working, and brings great distress upon his family. In order to remedy their great wrong, the little Glenwood children determine to raise, by their own efforts, enough money to aid him till he is able to go to work again. They hit upon the plan of making "blackberry jam" and selling it to their parents. The account of their blackberrying, their learning to make the jam, etc., is very amusing and instructive for the young folks. The story teaches industry and self-sacrifice. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

THE RELIGIOUS FEELING, by Newman Smyth. (Scribner, A. & Co.) That the religious feeling is innate in every one, even the untutored savage that missionaries have never reached, is the theme under discussion in this volume, and which Mr. Smyth brings forth considerable evidence to attest and prove. He claims that the same line of reasoning has never been thoroughly brought out in any other book in the English language, though developed to some extent in German philosophical writings. He has arrived at his deductions through what he calls "a process of natural selection in an American mind, from the German idealism and the English positivism." The work appeals to thinking and cultured minds, is freshly written, and presents new evidences of faith which even the most sceptical will pause to ponder over. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW. (Lockwood, B. & Co.) This is another of the realistic domestic biographies introduced by "That Husband of Mine" and "His Grandmothers." Its story is a very familiar one to all who have had mothers-in-law. This one is after the stereotyped pattern; she is jealous, exacting, and generally disagreeable, but is fortunately carried off, in the end, by an elderly admirer, who is the unconscious instrument in carrying out Punch's advice to many who desire to make home happy. "Leave it," he says, and Mrs. Pinkerton does, in a carriage and pair and a blaze of glory. There is little plot and but few characters, the whole story being related in a quiet, simple fashion, entirely devoid of coarseness. Sq. 16mo, paper, 50 cents.

RAY'S NEW PRIMARY, NEW INTELLECTUAL, and NEW PRACTICAL ARITHMETICS. (Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co.) This series of arithmetics is an old favorite with teachers, and is well known to the trade. We only call attention to it now in an entirely new dress and in a revised form. The objects of the revision have been to present the books in improved type, with better arrangement and a more pleasing outward appearance, and to introduce such new features as will adapt the series more perfectly to the present methods of instruction. As the old edition is still continued in publication, care should be taken in ordering to specify the new edition, or "Ray's New Arithmetics." 12mo, bds., 18 cents, 28 cents, and 55 cents.

LECTURES ON PREACHING, by the Rev. Phillips Brooks. (Dutton.) These lectures, delivered before the Divinity School of Yale College, in January and February, 1877, are eight in number, and entitled "The Two Elements in Preaching," "The Preacher Himself," "The Preacher in his Work," "The Idea of the Sermon," "The Congregation," "The Ministry for our Age," "The Value of the Human Soul." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

LOTOS LAND, AND OTHER POEMS, by G. S. Ladson. (P. G. Thomson, Cincinnati.) As a first effort in the publishing line, this is a very creditable specimen of book-making, paper, print, and binding being everything that could be desired; the binding is specially neat and attractive. The poems, without any great claims to originality, are musical and pleasing. Square 16mo, cloth.

[Ready Sept. 29.]

The Preludes on Current Events, with which Mr. Cook prefaced his lectures, are printed in connection with them.

In this volume Mr. Cook discusses, with great learning and with a force and eloquence peculiarly his own, the cardinal points popularly supposed to be at issue between Science and Religion.

These lectures attracted vast audiences, comprising clergymen of all denominations, professional men, scholars, and thinkers, as well as men and women of general intelligence.

✎ A Book of Special Value to the Physician and of Exceeding Interest to the General Reader.

VITAL MAGNETISM:

Its Power Over Disease.

By FREDERICK T. PARSON (Magnetic Physician).

The Nature, Uses, and Range of Action of the principle known under the terms "Animal Magnetism," "Mesmerism," "Hypnotism," etc., are here set forth in a series of chapters of marvellous interest. Discarding utterly and wholly all association of this principle with "supernatural manifestations," "spiritism," "mediums," etc., the author relegates it, where it belongs, to the domain of Natural Law; and with fact upon fact, case upon case, evidence upon evidence of eminent practitioners, proves the INESTIMABLE VALUE of Vital Magnetism in its power over disease and its beneficence in the relief of human suffering.

The volume is stuffed with facts, giving to theory and speculation upon the nature of the principle and its phenomena but one chapter—the object being to present the subject in its practical, efficient, and determinant aspects.

Coming from the pen of one eminently well qualified to write and speak, both as a practitioner and experimenter, it will be given a warm welcome by every candid physician, and by all readers interested in human health, happiness, and the progress of intelligence.

Ready early in October. One vol., 12mo. In extra cloth, price, $1.25. Our usual discount to the Trade.

LEATHERETTE.

LEATHERETTE is an article now well known to the trade, and, without falsifying or exaggeration, it is destined to be more extensively used for book-binding than any other material. It certainly possesses—Beauty, as it is used extensively for silver cases, papeteries, passe-partouts, etc.; Flexibility, as it covers picture frames, boxes of all shapes, and embosses for wall paper; Durability, as it finds a market for the inner soles of shoes, desk and table tops, the bands of feather dusters, covering for whip handles, etc.; and it is certainly suitable for book-binding, as it is hard to distinguish it from leather, it imitates it so exactly, and it takes ink, lithographing, and gilding with fine effect.

Individuals or firms wishing a set of books covered with a binding both durable and waterproof, cannot do better than use LEATHERETTE, as for a few cents a yard more than book-cloth they can have grain of the seal, levant, or morocco, straight or pebbled, russia or skiver, and each grain in all desirable colors. Samples will be sent free on application to

Retail Booksellers, News Agents, and Dealers generally, who desire a handy, cheap, and profitable advertising medium for the latest books in the market will find the best adapted to that purpose.

This publication (now in its sixth year) will be issued, as heretofore, at the beginning of every month, with not less than eight pages, embracing Editorial Notes, Literary Intelligence, entertaining bits from the books of the season, a select List, containing the titles and prices of the PRINCIPAL BOOKS PUBLISHED DURING THE PREVIOUS MONTH, and announcements of Forthcoming Works for the Current Month. It will be printed on tinted paper, of light texture, so that it can be sent with any book, magazine, paper, letter, circular, etc.

It is certain that dealers who will adopt this cheap and effective mode for advertising their establishments, will find themselves amply repaid in a short time, and we have the testimony of many dealers who have not only increased the sales from their counters, but have found the orders for books not in stock highly remunerative.

Terms for Editions with Imprint, invariably payable in advance.

Any quantity from 100 to 1000 copies will be sent post-paid, but for larger quantities, at the reduced rates, postage or expressage will be charged.

Dealers who desire an edition for trial before subscribing, can be supplied at the following rates:

Dresser, McLellan & Co.'s New Books.

Ready October 10,

Dr. Tom,

By EDWARD PAYSON, is coming to cure you of the effects of "bad literature published during the summer season."

The Boston Post says of it: "'DOCTOR TOM.'—Such is the taking title of a taking story takingly written by a talented son of one of New England's most eminent divines, an advance copy of which the publishers, Dresser, McLellan & Co., have laid on our table."

Also, Ready October 1, the Second Volume of "The Forest City Series," entitled

Phil, Bob, and Louis;

OR,

Haps and Mishaps of Three Average Boys.

By MARY S. DEERING,

Author of "An Average Boy's Vacation." Uniform with and a companion to the "Average Boy's Vacation."

"Sophie May," author of the popular "Prudy" books for children, says of the work: "It seems to me a very pure, sweet, natural story, and I heartily wish it success."

The Boston Traveller (December 22, 1876) says: "'An Average Boy's Vacation,' by Mary S. Deering, a little book which bears the imprint of a Portland firm, is the first of a series to be known as the 'Forest City Series.' Though an average boy is the hero, it is a little above the average as a story. It is bright, witty, and interesting. The sports of boyhood and the fun of home are mingled here with lots of boy philosophy like this: 'I shall never keep a store,' said Phil. 'You can't tell whether you will make any thing. And I shan't be a lawyer; it takes too long to get started in business; nobody is obliged to carry a case to a lawyer. But if I should be a doctor, and there was a baby within two doors sick with croup, nobody would wait to think how old I was. They'd just run and get me, and I should save the baby. Then I'm all right.' It is a capital book, and prettily gotten up."
